Script de la vidéo

Hi! I'm Kevin from Sightseer.TV. London has so much to offer it can feel a bit overwhelming so here are ten things we suggest you could see or do on a trip to London.

At 10: visit the British Museum. It's free and you get to see Egyptian mummies up close.

If shopping is your thing, head to Europe's busiest shopping area: Oxford Street. There are some huge department stores here, including Selfridges.

Are you a sports fan? London has lots of the world's most famous venues. You could go on a tour at Wembley Stadium, Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Club, Twickenham or Lord's Cricket Ground, to name just a few.

The South Bank is London's arts hub, right on the River Thames. Here you can take a nice walk along the river bank.

You can't come to London and not visit Westminster, especially Parliament Square where you can see Big Ben, the Houses of Parliament and Westminster Abbey.

For world-class museums, with no admission charge, you can't beat South Kensington: here you can go to the V&A*, the Science Museum and the Natural History Museum.

To get a real overview of the city, you could take a half-hour trip on the London Eye: the glass capsules will give you a stunning view over the city... well, as long as it's not raining!

Camden Market has become one of London's most popular shopping destinations. This series of markets is bound to have something you want to buy.

For the feeling of a village within a city, head to Greenwich. You can visit the National Maritime Museum and head up to the Royal Observatory, where you can stand on the Greenwich Meridian Line.

So, that's nine suggestions; we couldn't have a list of ten without including the Tower of London: it's shaped of the city's, sometimes brutal but always fascinating, past.

At Sightseer.TV, we have dozens and dozens of videos on these and other attractions: you can search by topic or area. We also have advice on everything from getting to airports to where to stay. So please, have a look on some of our other videos, here on Sightseer.TV.
